Katie Sparrow

Senior Manager, Policy Advocacy

Katie Sparrow serves as Senior Manager of Policy Advocacy for the U.S.-India Business Council (USIBC). Ms. Sparrow advises and advocates to the U.S. government and the Government of India on various issues relating to the food, agriculture, and retail trade sectors. She also works on the Council's Trade and Investment Initiative, which focuses on reducing the principal trade and investment barriers of commercial significance to USIBC member companies, designed to bring broadly inclusive growth to both countries.

Previously, Ms. Sparrow served as International Affairs Manager at the International Dairy Foods Association (IDFA) in Washington, DC. IDFA represents the nation's dairy manufacturing and marketing industries and their suppliers, with a membership of 530 companies representing a $100-billion a year industry. In this role, Sparrow managed IDFA's efforts concerning international trade and import and export issues, in addition to supporting trade policy advocacy aimed at decreasing foreign barriers burdening U.S. dairy exports. She also oversaw the association's sweetener and trade committees.

Sparrow received a Master of Arts with distinction in international economic relations from the School of International Service at American University and graduated magna cum laude from Lynchburg College with a BA in international relations. While pursuing her undergraduate degree, Sparrow studied abroad for a semester in Paris, France. She is a member of the Washington International Trade Association (WITA) and currently resides in Washington, DC.
